A Sad Story from Canada—A heartrending tragedy occurred near Ottawa last week It appears that three little children named Forth went into their father's barn which was full of grain and set fire to it. After doing this they climbed to the top of the mow and jumped around in a merry mood until the flames began to get too hot. They then tried to get down but found escape impossible and commenced to shout for help Their mother who was a short distance away heard their cries of distress and ran to their assistance When she entered the barn all she could see was a dense cloud of smoke and flame and from it proceeded the most piteous screams and cries of her little children. With a mother's devotion the brave woman climbed into the burning mow No sooner had she done so than she was overcome by the heat and smoke and fell on her face in the hay a short distance from the children Some of the neighbors were by this time attracted by the smoke rising from the burning building and arrived just in time to see her roll out of the mow to the floor in an unconscious condition They picked her up, but she was dead After the barn was burned down the bodies of the three little children were also recovered, and now await the action of the Coroner Mr Forman was at work from home when the unfortunate affair occurred and knew nothing of it until he returned Much sympathy is felt with him among the neighbors

Woman Suffrage in Michigan—The people of Michigan are to vote this fall upon the question of admitting women to the right of suffrage but the Detroit Post says that the discussion of the issue has become very languid and uninteresting The same paper says that the canvass is generally at a complete stand still with only an occasional unimportant local meeting and that the prospect now is that the proposition will be badly defeated in every part of the State, with a total majority against it as at present estimated by shrewd observers of from 40 000 to 60 000 votes In many important parts of the State the movement has almost ceased to be a topic of conversation and unless there is a revival of interest therein, it bids fair to perish quickly of sheer dullness and public indifference. The first novelty of the proposition having worn off, and the political parties being busy preparing to enter the field with party lines, the public seems to be losing all its interest in and for the suffrage business.

SHE DIDN'T DO IT

SUSAN B ANTHONY INTERVIEWED—SHE TELLS HOW THE WHOLE THING DIDN'T HAPPEN

Receiving reliable information last evening that Colonel Susan B Anthony was on the Omaha train the bushiest reporter on the Herald was scared with a sudden frenzy to go and interview the old damsel We were astonished at his sudden infatuation until we remembered that Mr Bly was a man of excellent taste in these matters and let the young man go He found the giddy young thing taking supper at the Union depot restaurant and timidly took a seat by her side

Have I the honor he said hesitatingly of—

'Het?' said the Colonel Gimme the ketchup

Have I the honor the bashful reporter began again of addressing Miss Anthony?

Yoop shrieked the boisterous girl, in a tone of astonishment How dare you! Address me indeed! Oh ha! she cried faintly and showing evident signs of waiting into the reporter's arms I'm such a giddy thing I don't know what I am saying

The reporter blushing violently bolstered her girlish form up with his elbow, and said

I would like to ask, before making any inquiries into your own connection with this sad business at Brooklyn how it is that Anna Dickinson has not got mixed up in it?

The damsel bolted a potato small size and after one or two convulsive movements of the neck and throat replied

She doesn't know anything about it Hasn't heard a word of it She's up in north west York State making stump speeches for Greeley yet and lecturing on the causes which led to the disruption of the Republican party that will lead to Grant's disgrace and Greeley's success She! Bless you she won't hear about this Brooklyn business till the next sensation is nearly done with Anna ought to leave the rostrum she's getting too old Let me see, the Colonel said I'm eighty I came to this country soon after the battle of Bunker Hill Anna was here when I came I was a wee bit of a thing then and she was in long dresses and had left school I will be nineteen next May Dear me how time flies I shall soon be a woman That makes Anna at least forty three if she's a day But I love her dearly She's been a mother to me said the tender hearted Colonel weeping she's the only person in this great wide world who can remember when I was born and if she dies how bereft this world will be

And she dropped her classically shaped head on the reporter's shoulder and sobbed softly blowing cracker-crumbs and scraps of onion on his coat collar.

Don't he said don't distress yourself Miss Anthony I pray you Compose your self there's a man looking at us Don't! My dear Susan —

Yeoop! she went off again and immediately became so rigid that the thermometer in the room went down a few degrees Sir do not trifle with a young girl's feelings

It is currently reported the reporter said that Mr Tilton is one of your ardent admirers

"Go way' said Miss Anthony "Don't say a word to me' What an awful lie! Everybody makes about that anyhow' Why I have had since I first began to make a debut tours 1 800 offers of marriage of which 736 were in the city of Chicago One of them was from a young ship-carpenter Mr Tuttle builder of the yacht Scoop Tom Dear Tut he was such a delightful story teller But he ran away and married the cook of the Scoop Tom

Is there any truth in that story that Bessie tells about your sitting in Mr Tilton's lap? the reporter queried

Naw w w she snarled Ther isn't one syllable of truth in it and that girl was an ungrateful deceitful little thief I always told Tilton he would catch it some time she was always sneaking around She made that bet out of the whole cloth In the first place, even if I had been sitting in Tilton's lap which I solemnly deny she couldn't have seen us from the door for we were sitting in the corner behind the door In the second place she didn't open the door and look in, for it was locked and in the third place I jumped off of Theodore's lap and when he opened the door for Bessie I was sitting in the rocking-chair at the other end of the room So that's all the truth there is in that story

At this interesting juncture the train ball rang and the conductor shouted all aboard The gallant Colonel kicked the reporter for making her talk so much she couldn't eat any supper, crammed her pocket full of tomattusses and bread and savagely refusing to pay 75 cents for what she did eat ran over a porter's truck, abrading her shins frightfully and gathering her skirts climbed on the car and scolded a blister on a knothin the paneling before the train got to the top of the grade—Burlington Hawk Eye

THE SLANDER ON MRS STANTON

HOW THE HUSBAND OF ELIZABETH DEMONSTRATED THE SUPERIORITY OF THE MALE SEX

In Bessie Turner's testimony as given to the newspapers by Thomas G Shearman without the consent of the Investigating Committee there is this passage

Q—What was his [Tilton's] conduct with Mrs H F Stanton A—Well I never saw him caressing her but he used to be alone with her a great deal in his study they used to play chess till two or three o'clock in the morning frequently they were up until after the family had gone to bed—quite late

Q—How were you able to say that they sat up until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning? A—Because I was quite awake and heard the clock strike

Q—Before they retired? A—Yes, sir I can testify on one occasion the clock struck 2 and on another 3

Q—And they retired after that? A—Yes sir

Mr Tilton yesterday spoke of the publication of the above in the strongest terms Said he The committee have done an unwarranted injury to two highly respectable ladies and I have put a blight on poor Bessie's name and virtue which she never will be rid of Her testimony is fiction and a perfect perversion of the truth The scene which she connects with Miss Anthony's name never occurred Miss Anthony and Mrs Stanton were frequently at my house Elizabeth than was very much interested in woman suffrage and she always welcomed these ladies One evening after tea we were all in my library, and I was discussing with Mrs Stanton the relative superiority of the sexes She was full of wit and met my arguments completely I finally said Mrs Stanton I have one more argument against your theory of the equality of the sexes I have never yet met a woman who could play chess with me She was ready with an answer in a moment and said that she would engage me in three games to decide the question We took the chessboard and played far into the night perhaps until one o'clock If from the three games in the next week's Revolution which Mrs Stanton edited she reported the game and gave the argument that led to it but woman like she omitted to give the result ending her notice in this witty way And Mr Tilton will not fail to say who was the victor

HENRY C BOWEN'S SUIT

THE HORRIBLE SLANDER UPON WHICH BOWEN'S COMPLAINT AGAINST DEMAS BARNES IS BASED

THE COMPLAINT

State of New York, Kings county ss—Henry C Bowen Edward A Bowen and Clarence W Bowen being severally duly sworn say each for himself That Demas Barnes is a resident of the city of Brooklyn and the editor and proprietor and publisher of a newspaper known as the Brooklyn Daily Argus published at the city of Brooklyn Kings county and that on August 24 1874 at the city of Brooklyn and county of Kings aforesaid said Demas Barnes maliciously and wrongfully published and caused to be published in said paper a false malicious and defamatory libel of and part of which the following is a copy

[Here is a page complained of was the account of the interview with Mr H M Smith published in the Argus on the 24th inst It was as follows]

Mrs Bowen deponent, the former wife of Henry C Bowen now deceased and the mother of deponents Edward A Bowen and Clarence W Bowen died and on her deathbed made a confession (meaning a confession that she had committed adultery), she told a terrible story and Bowen's (meaning deponent, Henry C Bowen's) rage and grief was intense and maddening At the funeral of Mrs Bowen, Mr Tilton performed many kind offices and a short time after Mr Bowen (meaning deponent Henry C Bowen) weighed with grief wrote a letter from Woodstock to Tilton which was a strong indictment of Henry Ward Beecher (meaning that deponent Henry C Bowen) had stated in writing that one Henry Ward Beecher had committed adultery with the said deceased wife of said Henry C Bowen

Things ran along without any open demonstration on Mr Bowen's meaning deponent Henry C Bowen part until one day when he induced Tilton to write a letter calling on Mr Beecher to leave the pulpit Bowen took that letter to Mr Beecher What passed at that interview has not yet been made public but whereas Mr Bowen went to see Mr Beecher as an indignant outraged man he left Mr Beecher in an exactly opposite mood It is said by some that there were financial considerations that influenced Mr Bowen (meaning that deponent Henry C Bowen received and accepted money or some pecuniary benefit from Henry Ward Beecher in satisfaction of the cause of complaint arising from the adultery said Beecher with said deceased wife of said Henry C Bowen) It is urged on the other hand that Mr Beecher made revelations to Bowen in regard to some of his children that so staggered Bowen that he agreed to a truce (Meaning that said Beecher had told deponent Henry C Bowen that some of his said Bowen's children were illegitimate and that deponent Henry C Bowen believed such statement)

That said Mrs Bowen was Lucy M Bowen the former wife of deponent Henry C Bowen and the mother of deponent, Edward A Bowen, and Clarence W Bowen and of other living children That said Lucy M Bowen died about 1863 that said Demas Barnes published and caused to be published said false and malicious libel with intent to injure defame and vilify the memory and reputation of said Lucy M Bowen, deceased and to bring the deponents and the rest of the family relations and descendants of said Lucy M Bowen into disgrace contempt and infamy as well as with intent to injure defame and vilify the deponent, Henry C Bowen

Whereupon deponents pray that a warrant may issue for the arrest of the said Demas Barnes that he may be dealt with according to law

Sworn before me this 27th day of August 1874

SOME HORSE WHIPPING NEEDED

The Springfield Union in referring to the scandal is of the opinion that a good horse whipping would do more to clear the moral atmosphere than 40 new statements It says

There are still a few living women left in the country who have not been charged with adultery and the Beecher case, and until their number has been exhausted it would be only decent to let the graveyards alone It is hard enough to charge Mrs Hooker and Edna Dean Proctor one of the purest of our poets with adultery but even these outrages are eclipsed by the unspeakable enormity of maligning a dead wife and mother If Miss Proctor has no brothers Mrs Bowen at least has left a husband and sons who ought to be able to administer a horsewhipping to her traducers"

THE BRITISH POSTOFFICE

An elaborate official report has recently been published over the signature of the Postmaster General of England which contains much that is both curious and interesting in regard to the development of the several departments under his control Some of the details which we will briefly recount are also valuable in relation to the history in the same direction of the Postoffice here In the first place it is worthy of note that the English Postoffice pays The receipts for 1873 amounted to $26 740 000 which was an increase of $695 000 over the previous year the expenditure at the same time being only $18 965 000 thus leaving a surplus of no less than $7 775,000 There are 44,000 persons employed in the department, of whom many are women the number including 12 500 postmasters 9 000 clerks and about 20 000 sorters carriers and messengers The number of postoffices in the United Kingdom is 12 000 besides 9 000 road letter boxes whereas thirty five years ago the whole number of receiving houses of all descriptions was only 4 500 The exact number of letters which passed through the department in 1873 appears to have been obtained with only proximate accuracy but it was about 807 000 000 In addition to these there were 72 000 000 of post cards 129 000 000 of book packets and 122 000 000 of newspapers or a total of 1 233,000 000 of articles posted All these show an increase over the returns of the previous year except the postal cards, which have diminished about five per cent As an illustration of the manner in which the customs attendant upon St Valentine's Day are still maintained it is mentioned that on the eve of the last Valentine's Day the increased mail required for its conveyance in London alone 906 extra mail bags each three feet long and two feet wide It may indeed be fairly presumed that valentines have increased in much the same ratio as letter writing and it is found that whereas in 1839 the last year of high postage rates, the number of letters did not exceed three in the year for each inhabitant it now exceeds twenty nine

The business of the Telegraph Department is also rapidly increasing having been seventeen per cent more last year than it was in 1872 The custom of conveying the wires into offices and private residences is likewise growing The revenue derived from these private wires last year was $285 000 The number of words contained in newspaper dispatches during the year was 38 000 000, as against 26 000 000 in the previous year but as many of these messages were sent to various newspapers the total number of words was 214 000 000 On one occasion 400 000 words were sent from the central office during one night

An Illustration—The narrow gauge railroad from Salinas to Monterey is, as stated, will be completed by the last of September This road will be 181 miles long and, including the rolling stock wharf and warehouses will cost but $250 000 It is owned by the Grangers This road shows conclusively what may be done by proper exertion Our railroads heretofore have been mostly paid for by the people, or the people will be taxed to pay for them They might just as well have been owned by the public as to have been given to men to oppress us It is not however too late for the people, which means farmers, to protect themselves by building narrow gauge railroads in various portions of the State—S F Call

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 8, 1874.

THE RAILWAY SUBSIDY.

A call is published for a meeting to be held next Saturday evening for the purpose of expressing the sense of the people of this county on the subject of aid by the Legislature to the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake railway enterprise. There ought to be a good turn-out. The members of the Legislature, to be representatives of the people, should be informed of the wishes of the people.

The matter of giving assistance to this greatly needed enterprise is probably the most important matter that will come before the Legislature. It has a double importance. The enterprise itself is one which, if pushed on to completion, would be of incalculable benefit to the State; while the question of imposing any burden of this nature upon the people of the State is one that cannot be lightly passed over at this time. Add to these the constitutional limitations upon the power of the Legislature in relation to subjects of the nature of this one, and the importance as well as the difficulties of the question will be very apparent.

The Legislature about to convene, if it live up to the pledges upon which its members were elected, will be pre-eminently an economical body; for all three of the parties went before the country at the June election upon platforms the main planks of which were promises of reform and retrenchment. But parsimony is not economy, nor is retrogression reform. Penny wisdom is often pound folly.

The Board of Trade, at its meeting last Monday evening, adopted the report of the Committee, recommending the granting of aid by the Legislature, upon certain conditions. This is the expression of the principal merchants and business men on the subject, and should have weight with those who have to act in the premises. The condition upon which the Board recommended the aid to be given, is certainly prudent. The aid asked from the State would prove entirely inadequate to secure the construction of the road, without further aid from Congress. Money expended in the enterprise without the Congressional subsidy would be money wasted. The Legislature should be careful also in granting assistance, to provide, by sufficient conditions, against the wasteful expenditure of the money. It is saying nothing against the integrity or capacity of the gentlemen who are to handle the funds of the road—whoever those gentlemen may be—to say they are liable to make such injudicious use of the funds as other railway builders have made of moneys belonging to the enterprises they represent. The people at large ought in no event to be required to bear the [illegible] by want of judgment in the expenditure of the moneys raised to build the road. All these matters require to be carefully guarded, and should not be overlooked in the general anxiety for the road.

WHO PROMPTED IT?

The Bulletin denies that its attack upon the Supreme Court, to which we referred on Monday, was dictated by Mr. Ben Holladay. Let the reader judge for himself, upon a fair presentation of the facts. Mr. Holladay is the owner of the Bulletin. It has been run simply as an organ of himself and his schemes for money-making from the day of its first issue. Whenever any other paper has uttered a word unfriendly to him or his modes of operation, the Bulletin has rushed to his defense with the zeal of a personal servant. Once or twice it has, indeed, been attempted to make the world believe he had parted with the concern; but these efforts were made only after his waning fortunes suggested the [illegible] of some such step as a means of saving the organ. The mask has always proved too thin to deceive anybody, and the real ownership of the paper has had to be avowed again. The Bulletin is still the personal organ of Mr. Holladay. The decision of the Supreme Court to which reference has been made was in a case to which Mr. Holladay [illegible] by which he is defeated. It is to be presumed the decision was correct, but that we are not discussing. If it was not sound it is not the first decision the Court has ever rendered that could be criticised. It is the first the Bulletin has criticised, and its criticism of this decision against Mr. Holladay was not a discussion of the legal question involved, but a broad statement by innuendo that the Judges had violated the law in order to keep with the current of popular sentiment. The editor of the Bulletin does not pretend to be a lawyer, and never offered his opinion against that of the Supreme Court, till that Court decided a case adversely to the owner of the Bulletin, and then, [illegible] ying an examination of the legal questions in the case, it suggests that the Judges have been led to their conclusion by improper motives. Let the intelligent reader say whether the only rational inference from the facts is not that the Bulletin's course in this matter has been prompted by the wounded feelings of its owner.

PUT UP OR SHUT UP.

The Bulletin has several times taken occasion to state that the circulation of that paper was larger than that of the OREGONIAN. Yesterday morning it repeated the assertion. We have not heretofore felt disposed to engage in a controversy of this nature, and therefore have permitted the Bulletin's statement to go uncontradicted, although we knew it to be grossly untrue. We now propose, however, to end the matter in short order. We assert that the circulation of the OREGONIAN greatly exceeds that of the Bulletin, and we are ready to submit to a fair test of the correctness of our assertion. The two papers are published at the same price. The receipts for subscription therefore will tell the story. We hereby propose to have the receipts of the two papers for subscription examined, and let the public know which is the larger. There can be no hocus pocus in that sort of an investigation. Will the Bulletin come to the scratch?

A TERRIBLE SCOURGE.

GRASSHOPPER RAVAGES IN KANSAS.—ALMOST STARVED OUT.—FEEDING WHEAT TO HORSES.—THE APPROACH OF THE PLAGUE.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Aug. 27.]

A former citizen of this county, who has been in Kansas for some years past, returned here yesterday with his family, in search of something to eat. He says the grasshoppers have destroyed everything edible in the section of the country in which his farm is situated, leaving absolutely nothing to eat. In this connection we publish the following extract from a private letter received here this morning, from a lady in Marshall County, Kan., detailing her experience:

"The dry weather has lengthened into a dreadful drought, and the grasshoppers have come down like the wolf on the fold, and inconveniences have dwindled into insignificance beside these real troubles. As we had no crops to lose, of course the grasshoppers affect us only indirectly. Corn is the principal food here, not only of cattle and hogs, but also of horses. The destruction of that crop raises the price of oats, and makes the keeping of horses expensive. Where corn is to be obtained to feed cattle through the winter, is a question no one can answer.

"Farmers are putting up all the hay they can, but the drought has affected the grass, so that they have to mow a very large surface to get what they want. Some are feeding wheat to their horses. It was harvested just in time to save it from the grasshoppers. The poor homesteaders, just west of us, are badly off, they having no crops in but corn. Many are leaving to spend the winter where food can be obtained, and will return in the spring.

"On Saturday night, after the thermometer had stood 110 degrees in the shade, we could see that a heavy storm was raging in the North. The next day was cool and delicious for riding in to church. A pleasant north breeze prevailed all day. In the afternoon I was indoors and all the rest outside, when the call came, 'Come and see the grasshoppers.' I went and looked up into the air. It was like looking up into a snow-storm when the flakes are large, and the wind drifting them horizontally, the sun shone so through their light-colored bodies and gauzy wings. That was the first of them, brought up by that delightfully cool breeze. Next day the cornfields looked like plantations of bayonets. They ate the top of vegetables, then the root, leaving a hole in the ground.

"In the above of the fruit, we had been counting greatly on the peaches—the trees are stripped, only the stones left hanging on by the stems."

THE OSAGE CEDED LANDS DECISION.—The opinion of the Court was prepared by Justice Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, and concurred in by Circuit Judge Dillon. The Court decided that when a patent for lands has been issued contrary to law, the United States may file a bill in equity to cancel it. It also decides that the lands in question, having been reserved in a treaty with the Osage Indians for their use, and being occupied by them at the date of the railroad grant of public lands, were not public lands of the United States within the meaning of the granting clause of the act; and also, that if such lands were within the granting clause, they were excepted out of this grant by the words that the grant should not extend to the lands previously reserved by the United States for any other use or purpose. This decision will create some stir in Kansas—and not only in Kansas, but among a great number of capitalists and land agents in various portions of the United States and Europe, who have based loans upon them—not to mention the thousands of settlers who occupy the lands, and also have been getting on anxiously over the claims of railroad companies for the lands they occupy.—Davenport (Ia.) Gazette.

TOOMBS AND STEPHENS.—Robert Toombs and Alexander H. Stephens have, indeed, become reconciled. We have the word of the Atlanta (Ga.) Herald for it. It says: "From General Toombs himself, we have it that the reconciliation was absolute, complete, and entirely honorable to both parties, and that he authorized the statement that he was ready to maintain the honor, not only of himself, but of Mr. Stephens in the transaction. It was entirely unnecessary that the public should be admitted to the terms of the settlement. Mutual explanations rectified the misunderstanding and restored the parties to their old fraternal relations, without a solitary harsh memory or feeling of bitterness. Each felt the same affection for and confidence in each other as of old, and General Toombs avowed his entire readiness and eager desire to be sponsor and champion of the integrity of Mr. Stephens in the matter as his own. We make this statement by his authority, and we add on our own, that on both sides the affair has demonstrated as punctilious an honor and as brotherly a sentiment as ever inspired two large-hearted and noble men."

WELL SAID.—Somewhere in the course of Senator Morton's great speech at Terre Haute occurs the following graphic description of the Democracy: "The Democratic party is out of power and is struggling to regain it. It is the opposition, and attempts to seize upon every popular discontent and avail itself of every local passion to injure the Republican party. It presents no policy for the administration of the Government, and makes no attempt to preserve consistency. It feels at liberty to profess in one locality what it denies in another, and to take any position in one State to strike the Republican party a blow, without regard to the ground which it occupies upon the same question in other States. It does not hesitate to use any weapon of assault, knowing that there is little responsibility attached to those who are struggling to gain power as compared to those who are responsible for its exercise."

PHYSIOLOGY OF INTEMPERANCE.—Plato rebuked a man for playing at dice, who answered that he was playing only for a trifle. But, said Plato, is the habit a trifle? Of all habits none are so controlling as indulgence in strong drink. The appetite is constantly increasing, while moral energy is becoming weaker. In the ordinary course there is therefore little hope of reform, and it is rare to see complete recuperation; loss of fortune—ruin of disease, misery of his family, do not reclaim the confirmed inebriate. The fear of such results may check in some degree the moderate drinker, but in most cases even this is only for a time. His mind becomes clouded, his moral perception impaired, and while he may be conscious of his weakened condition and its cause still he will seek temporary strength in the fatal expedient of more frequent stimulant.

A SOLID TREAD AND AN ASCENDANT STAR.—Garrett McMillan has accepted the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Ninth District of Georgia. In his letter he says: "The supremacy, long existing and decided, of our party in this district which has been and is the district's peculiar glory, will probably be contested with vigor, and by organized forces in the coming campaign. I accept the nomination, and will bear our standard with my best front. The finally perfect unanimity of your body in its nomination is a guaranty that we will go on again with that solid tread together, that to this hour has kept our star ever in the ascendant. Providence willing, I shall canvass the district entire, and speak to the people on the questions and principles with which they are to deal in November, at the polls."

FATHER OF THE HOUSE.—The refusal of Mr. Dawes to be again elected to Congress will make Judge Kelley the "father" of the next House of Representatives, as he will be the oldest member of that body elected consecutively. His next election will be his eighth, having received his first election on the ticket with Lincoln and Hamlin, in 1860, to the Thirty-seventh Congress. This honor will give him the choice of seats, and imposes on him the duty, in conjunction with the oldest member of the Democratic side of the House, of conducting the Speaker to the chair on his election.

SOLDIERS' HOMESTEADS.—Acting Secretary of the Interior Smith has reversed a recent decision of Commissioner Burdett, of the General Land Office, and holds that a soldier entitled to make an additional homestead entry, and who has made a second entry, but still has less than 160 acres, may make further entries until he shall have obtained one quarter of a section [illegible]

ENGINEERING PARTY.—The party of United States engineers, which lately returned from the San Juan Islands where they have been locating a number of Government [illegible] under the command of Gen. A. Mebler, are ready, after a complete refitting, to start this morning to make surveys for canals around the Dalles and Cascades, appropriations for which were made by the last Congress. The General and Mrs. Mebler accompany the party; Mr. John H. Stone, the General's confidential assistant, will also be of the company. The party is composed of R. A. Habersham, Chief of Party; Thos. C. Steele, Chief of Instruments; Edward A. Rogers, [illegible]; Robert Hamsondale, Ross, Rosenburg, Sprague and several others make up the company. We have no hesitation in saying that this is probably the most efficient engineer corps ever detailed from the city of Portland. We hope it is the intention of General Mebler to return a pleasant time and a successful appropriation. It is the intention of General Mebler and Mr. Stone to return here on Saturday next, and early in the coming week they will go to the Yamhill river to start Mr. Conner on some important surveys in that country. During the absence of the General, Mr. James Daly, who has been the General's right-hand and confidential man for the last twenty years, will attend to the business of the department at his office in this city.

MR. BRADFORD'S LECTURES.—This evening, at the First Congregational Church, Rev. A. H. Bradford, late of Montclair, New Jersey, will deliver a lecture. His subject will be "One of England's Heroes." The lectures have been [illegible] to temporarily assume the pastorate of the First Congregational Church during the absence of Rev. J. H. Elliot, who is [illegible] Mr. Bradford is a young man of marked ability and of much promise. He is a gentleman of liberal culture, of fine scholarly attainments, and his labors in the ministerial field have been attended with [illegible] success. As a lecturer, he has a reputation in Portland. The subject on which he proposes to lecture this evening has been studied with great care and thoroughly prepared. It is confidently expected that a literary treat is in store for all who start for his home this evening. For two weeks, Prior, to his departure, he will deliver another lecture on the subject of "A Jersey man Among Webfoots."

NATURAL CURIOSITIES.—Mr. [illegible] brought back some curious [illegible] of stone while on his late visit to [illegible] which would make admirable [illegible] stones. They were given to him by the Pen d'Oreille tribe. The stones resembling turtles, "lady finger" cake, a hand looking glass, dumb bells, and many others, were [illegible] musical shapes by the action of the water.

Workmen are planking the roadway leading down from Water street to the [illegible] East Portland.

Mr. Mat. Keith, of this city, will open a branch saloon for the benefit of hungry legislators at the Capital.

Fires were in order last night, and [illegible] suits have been discarded, except by those [illegible] dan's help themselves.

Judge Denny is off on another excursion to Clatsop—for his health. Vags and other offenders are again free from judicial vexations.

The Amphion quartette have kindly consented to sing this evening at the First Congregational Church, on the occasion of Mr. Bradford's lecture.

Weather probability—when you see a man going home at two o'clock in the morning, and knows his wife is waiting for him, it is likely to be stormy.

Drovers from Oregon to Victoria are likely to meet with opposition. We learn from a gentleman from Ontario that a large drove of cattle was purchased near there for the Victoria market to be driven down by way of the Fraser.

C. F. Keahn tells of a German army officer who was shot in the Franco-Prussian war, carries the leaden messenger in his body, and what is most surprising, experiences heartbeating on the right side.

"To cure drafts, direction all to open doors, open the inner doors, then take a long switch and chase a cat up and down stairs till she sweats." That may do in theory, but no decent cat would [illegible] in the house with a dyspeptic man.

The late W. Nichols Robinson, who died last week, was a servant in Senator Sumner's family. "Nick," as he was familiarly called, was famous as cuisine, and many epicures will miss him. A year ago he was connected with Mr. Simmons in the Dalmonico Restaurant and what is now known as the Delmonico.

[illegible] W. G. Leslie, Secretary of the Exempt Firemen's Association, has, having gained a knowledge of the proposed Exempt Firemen's Association, advised through the mails that the organization would meet [illegible] announcement he was elected Treasurer of the Association, at the meeting last evening.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

A big game between two nines of the best players of the various clubs in this city is on the tapis for Saturday.

The College Club have declined to accept the challenge of the Pioneers. The reason assigned is that they have games to play with the Arcadians, and the latter are anxious to have the aforesaid games decided.

John Bird, who has been regarded as the best pitcher here-about, and who has played this season with the Arcadians, and his brother, [illegible] Richard, who has filled [illegible] and [illegible] for that [illegible] have, we learn, gone to California.

PERSONAL.

Hon. W. H. Clark, State Senator from Grant county, has reached this city on his way to Salem.

ELOPEMENT IN HIGH LIFE.

Nearly two months ago there arrived from San Francisco on the steamer, a couple, concerning whose domestic life is a brief history, more to the discredit of the parties than to their good name. One of the party was an old gentleman, aged about 50 years, with clusters of silver locks hanging about his temples. The other party was an interesting young woman, across whose head not more than 20 years had passed. The man was a fine-looking old gentleman, of prepossessing appearance, and of rather venerable aspect. The woman was a very passable appearing individual, of decided accomplished and engaging address. She was a blonde. To the casual observer, the couple would pass for father and daughter; but to a keen reader of human nature they appeared to sustain relations even nearer, if possible—that of husband and wife, or lovers. Soon after arriving in Portland, the couple engaged board and lodging in a certain very respectable house in the city. To the proprietoress the old gentleman represented that the young lady was his wife—the third one in the bargain. No questions were asked, and the couple established themselves in their quarters. They demeaned themselves in a manner every way respectable, and to avoid the very semblance of suspicion. True, there was a great disparity in the ages of the two, a sort of union of May with December; but those who observed them walking lovingly about the streets—arm in arm—passed by, and glanced back with the oft-repeated remark. "There goes an old man with a handsome young wife." The couple, dressed in the height of fashion, lived in first-class style; the old fellow seemed delighted, and paid all the damages with the ease and grace of a millionaire. Time wore along, and at length rumors reached the ears of the hostess that all was not right with the couple. She was inclined for a time to discredit the reports; but at length they came from such an authentic source, that she felt in duty bound to notify the couple to quit her roof, which they accordingly did. This transpired a few weeks ago, and the last steamer sailing for San Francisco, carried the couple away, the young wife—so called—leaving under an assumed name.

Truth will out, like murder, especially is illicit love affairs, and so it did in this instance. When the true relation of the parties leaked out it was about as follows: The name of the old gentleman is Dr. A. J. Spencer, and that of the young woman Miss Eva Welsh. Spencer has resided for many years in San Jose, California. He is a physician of high standing and considerable skill. Having a very lucrative practice, he accumulated a very large fortune, estimated at $300,000. Hitherto he has stood above reproach in the community where he has so long resided, both as a citizen and a member of the medical profession. He has a most estimable wife residing in San Jose, and a son, who is engaged in the pratice of law in San Francisco. About six months ago Miss Welsh, whom it is said is an orphan, came to San Jose to live. Improper intimacy, it was reported, soon existed between Dr. Spencer and the "Jone and friendless" orphan. Open scandal followed, and the infatuated couple got up and dusted from the town, and coming to San Francisco, took the steamer for Portland. Before leaving San Jose, Spencer deposited in the bank there about $50,000 in coin. He took away with him letters of credit, or exchange on London, Paris and Rome. Some time elapsed ere the outraged and, it may well be supposed, indignant wife discovered whose her recreant lord and his inamorata had fled. But woman's wits are keen, and Spencer's whereabouts were traced up. Proceedings of injunction against the bank were instituted by Mrs. Spencer, and payment stopped. Papers notifying the husband of such action on the part of the wife were forwarded to this city, placed in the hands of one of our Justices of the Peace and served. This suddenly aroused the guilty couple from their fancied security, and caused them no little surprise and chagrin. A new course of action was determined upon, as Spencer was at the end of his available funds. When he eloped with that charming blonde, it is said he brought away about $9,000; but, through fast living and fine dressing, he managed to squander the most of it. On the last steamer Spencer and his protege left, the name of the woman appearing in the passenger list as Miss Ellen Grant.

Their destination is unknown, but it is fair to presume that Spencer is on his way back to San Jose, either to settle amicably his domestic difficulties, or to fight out the money question in a legal manner. From San Francisco exchanges we learn that the affair has created great excitement in the community where the parties have so long resided.

EXEMPT FIREMEN'S MEETING.

An adjourned meeting of signers to articles of association of exempt firemen of the Portland Fire Department, was held last evening at the Police Court-room.

The meeting was called to order by P. W. D. Hardenberg, President.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

It was moved and carried that the constitution and by-laws be read seriatum. This was done, and the same was adopted with sundry amendments and alterations.

The article as to the object of the organization reads as follows:

"The object of the Association being for benevolent purposes, its revenue shall be derived from fines, fees and dues, to be invested by it as the by-laws shall prescribe, and from donations, bequests, benefits, and from other sources which the Association shall be designated to receive it from."

The succeeding article reads:

"Each donation, bequest, gift or trust which shall be made to the Association or its trustees shall be held and applied by the Association, or its Board of Trustees, strictly in accordance with the express terms of the donation, bequest or trust, and in no other manner or way."

Mr. H. Failing offered the following proviso as an amendment to the foregoing articles: "Provided that no alteration or amendment shall be made to these articles which will in any wise destroy or impair the obligations of this Association, as set forth in articles 12 and 13" (given above).

On motion, the proviso was adopted.

Mr. Hallock moved that the Articles, as read, be adopted as a whole, which was done by a unanimous rising vote.

Mr. S. Norris moved that the Association proceed to the election of officers by ballot, which was carried.

Nominations being in order, A. B. Hallock was nominated for President of the Association.

B. F. Goodwin and Wm. Kapus were appointed tellers.

The following is the result of the first ballot: A. B. Hallock, 27; H. Failing, 2; W. S. Ladd, 1; Blank, 1.

Mr. Hallock came forward, by invitation, and assumed the chair, making a few appropriate remarks before doing so.

The election of a Vice President being next in order, the names of P. D. W. Hardenberg and S. J. McCormick were placed in nomination. The ballot stood as follows: Hardinberg, 20; McCormick, 5; Blank, 1.

The name of Shullrick Norris was placed in nomination for Secretary and that gentleman unanimously elected, immediately following which the newly elected Secretary came forward and assumed the duties of the position.

The names of W. S. Ladd and S. J. McCormick were placed in nomination for Treasurer, the ballot standing: Ladd, 21; McCormick, 7; T. A. Davis, 2; H. Failing, 2; blank, 2.

The nomination of six Trustees being next in order, the following gentlemen were chosen: Henry Failing, T. A. Davis, Peter Taylor, W. S. Ladd, C. H. Lewis and Al. Zieber.

Mr. Schuyler moved that a committee of three be appointed to draft by-laws for the use of the Association, and to report the same to an adjourned meeting of the Association. The President appointed as such committee Messrs. P. C. Schuyler, S. Norris and Wm. Kapus.

The President stated that through the courtesy of Chief Engineer Brier, he had been handed copies of the by-laws of the Exempt Associations of San Francisco and Sacramento, and that he would afford him pleasure to furnish them to the committee for their guidance and instruction in drafting the by-laws for the Portland Exempt Association.

On motion, the Secretary was authorized to procure, on the credit of the Association, the necessary blank books and stationery with which to keep the records of the same.

On motion, the Association adjourned to meet next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, sharp.

There are a thousand articles in the Museum—a sight of either is worth the admission fee.

Universal tobacco, a new and prime article. Finest brands of imported and domestic cigars at Bachman's, 99 First street, next to Walter Bros.

RAILROAD MEETING.

The undersigned citizens of Portland, impressed with the paramount importance of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad, in view of the approaching session of the Legislature, invite a public meeting of the citizens of Multnomah county, to be held at the Court House on Saturday evening next, at 7:30 o'clock, to express the sentiments of the people of said county with reference to the action of the Legislature upon this important subject. Come everybody, and by your presence evidence your favor to the great enterprise. Visitors are cordially invited.

PORTLAND, September 8, 1874.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.

THURSDAY, Sept. 8, 1874.

George E. Watkins and Seth Lewelling excused for the term.

U. S. vs Wm. Cook and Martha Cook. The following jurors were empanneled: Samuel Grove, Jos. A. Fields, John Dunlap, John N. Shute, D. H. Dorchester, Jas. McKay, F. S. Aiken, Wm. Broughton, Thomas Tucker, J. B. Congle, Henry Wehring, W. N. Purdin. Motion to discharge the defendant, Martha Cook, before the testimony was closed, heard and motion not denied; case argued, and submitted, and verdict of not guilty rendered, and defendants discharged.

Court adjourned until to-morrow at 10 o'clock, A. M.

COUNTY COURT—WOODWARD, J.

In the matter of the estate of A. C. Breisford, deceased; order for publication of notice of final settlement; set for hearing on To-day, Oct. 8, 1874.

In the matter of the estate of P. Quinn, deceased; order for publication of notice of final settlement; set for hearing on Thursday, Oct. 8, that being the third day of the October term, 1874.

In the matter of the estate of Torrence Monaghan, deceased; order of final discharge of administrator.

In the matter of the estate of Daniel Hill, deceased; order admitting will to probate and directing the same to be recorded in [illegible] (together with the proof and certificate of publication in the Record of Wills.) J. M. Scott, J. A. Newell and Henry Holtgrieve appointed executors.

In the matter of the estate of John Toothill, deceased; order for publication of notice of final settlement, set for hearing on October 8th.

A NOTABLE MARRIAGE.—The marriage of C. C. Beaman, Esq., of New York, and lately of the Geneva Commission, and Hettie Sherman, eldest daughter of William M. Evarts, Esq., was recently celebrated in St. Paul's Church, Windsor, Vt. The chancel was adorned with a profusion of exquisite flowers. Among the guests were Chief Justice Waite and Judge Hoar.

Lovers of the best should make their purchases at O'Brien's cigar store.

For Fine and Artistic Photographs go to Bucklee & Stolte, 91 and 93 First Street, the only First Class Gallery in the State.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.—Last week Messrs. Beck & Waldman opened the first lot of Fall Styles in Clothing. The purchase was made by Mr. Beck while in San Francisco, and he has certainly made a most excellent selection. The Styles are new and will find a ready sale. Beck & Waldman are making a specialty of Boys' Clothing, and fond parents should note this when they are out buying clothing for their darlings. Now is the time. Prices low, goods to suit all classes. Call and examine. No trouble to show goods.

Dr. Steele's Medical Wonder is doing more to cure the rheumatism, neuralgia, cramp colic, and other pains, in Oregon, than any other preparation. It removes the cause, safe, eliable and sure.

Kohn's clerks were busy yesterday in arranging the new stock of Boys' apparel. In the new display fond parents can find anything to fit their little boys—be they young or old. In addition to the above, a fine assortment of Gents' suits, Furnishing Goods, etc., have been opened. Mr. Kohn is making some very fine selections during his stay in San Francisco. Call to-day and you will find everything as stated.

TO PLEASURE SEEKERS.

Parties leaving the city for a season of pleasure should recollect Oysterville, where Mrs. Cantrell is at her cozy hotel, will look after wants of visitors.

J. FANNER,

Dealer in Imported and Domestic Cigars, Chewing and Smoking Tobacco, Yankee Notions, &c., offers the best, cheapest and largest stock in Portland. Call and judge for yourself and be convinced that as much satisfaction will be given for the money as at any other retail house in the city. Recollect the Havana Cigar Store, First, near Washington.

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE—that it may be promptly administered on all occasions, and in case of Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Affection, for which Dr. Jayne's Carminative Balsam is an effectual remedy. At this season of the year every family will find it a useful and necessary curative

A GLOOMY VIEW OF CASSIAR

A CORRESPONDENT GIVES A VERY UNFAVORABLE ACCOUNT OF THESE MINES.

Over the signature of "Box," a disappointed Cassiar miner writes a letter to the Victoria Colonist. The letter bears date of August 9th. We subtract the following:

There has been a good deal of sickness here in the shape of rheumatism, scurvy, and mountain fever, caused by exposure and lack of proper nourishment. Rheumatism appears to be the chief complaint, and a great many suffer fearfully, and still a greater number pretend to suffer from it who are not in the least affected.

The weather now is very bad. It has been raining for a month, with only two fine days, and is growing so cold that by the 10th of September I think they will all have to leave. But, you will say, the country is not half prospected—there will be better diggings found. Where? When? If there is anything that looks like a creek or a flat, 100 miles from Dease or Thibert creeks, except the Deloire river, I will make you a present of all my gold dust.

About 150 men have gone down the Deloire. Of these a few have returned, and report nothing but a small prospect of fine dust. Some Chinamen have also returned from there, and report that a rich prospect of from $2 to $3 to the pan was struck, but as they wanted to sell their boat and did not wish to return there, it is safe to stamp that as another bilk. I am willing to stake my last pound of beans (and that is equal to a man's life in a country like this) that diggings for 500 men will not be found north of "Cariboo." Of course, merchants, traders and steamboat men will give you a highly-colored picture of these northern gold fields next fall, hoping to induce another rush, that they may reap another golden harvest.

I understand that Wm. Moore, Jr., has gone to Victoria to build a new steamer for the Stikine trade next season. I can assure you that if he does build one it won't be for this trade; but it is well to keep up the delusion. His father gets a toll of $40 for every ton of freight, and $5 for every animal that goes into Dease Lake over his trail. Do you think he would call the country a bilk? No, sir, not at that price. If Capt. Parsons gets $50 per ton for freight, and $25 from each passenger exclusive of meals and a "hunk," from Fort Wrangel 150 miles up the river, would he call it a bilk? Certainly not. I heard a speculator say the other day that "no man had any business to leave the country without money, and that none but loafers and men who would not work, went back." Let him or any other man come out Dease creek and see hundreds of poor fellows wet and hungry, trying to drag out an existence on beans and flour, straight, going around prospecting or trying to beg a day's work at any price, and then say that "none but loafers or idlers return." Or if Mr. Nelson makes a hundred thousand dollars, should he call the country a bilk? No. It's the biggest thing yet. But it appears to me in a country like this, certain people have an infatuation for lying. Look at those of the "Peter" stamp, who has induced men to come here by the score from Pioche and elsewhere, and in another season he would have lied enough to have brought women and children from Siberia.

Outside of a half a dozen of claims on Dease creek, the country is not fit for Chinaman's diggings. Two or three hundred men could have made wages here this season if flour could be obtained for about $20 per 100 lbs., with everything else in proportion, which would have been the case had not every animal been bought up and monopolized; and now I am told the Indians who have been packing for a living are bought in order that the small traders may be shut out from sending anything into the mines.

The distance from Dease lake to Telegraph creek is my estimation is not over 75 miles, and for pack animals equal to a macadamized road, with the best of pasturage for nearly the whole way. The pack trains make the round trip in 8 and 9 days, and the Indians in 6, and one packer told me that 10 to 12 cents would be big freight on this route. But it appears the game of "grab" has been played to the detriment of the many with remarkable boldness by a few who hold the reins for the time being.

The Stomach as an Avenger.

For every breach of the laws of health that we commit the stomach inflicts a penalty. Headache, biliousness, nervous tremors, constipation, colic, heartburn, nausea, debility and mental depression are only a few of the punishments which an outraged stomach is capable of imposing upon us. To bring back this vengeful organ to its normal condition—to placate, invigorate and regulate it—there is nothing in the wide world so potent as a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the operation of this beneficent vegetable corrective and tonic, the gastric juice becomes a pure and healthy solvent and resumes its natural flow. The effect is the same on the biliary secretion, and in fact on all the fluids of the body, and the final result is the removal of every painful or unpleasant symptom occasioned by the rebellious action of the digestive organ.

A SENSATION IN WALL STREET

PROMINENT BANKER DISPOSED AS THE CAUSE—CURIOUS MODE OF AN ARREST BY WIFE

Mrs F Goldberg of No 37 Lewis street left for home yesterday morning fully intending to afford to the bulls and bears and other denizens of Wall street a new sensation and the success that attended her efforts was in every way complete Mrs Goldberg has six children With them he took a seat in Wall street marching in procession upon the breast of the eldest girl was displayed in front on which placard which read as follows

"Robbery of $5 000 by Utley and Dogerty, Bankers and Brokers No 4 and No 11 Wall street

Having deposited $5 000 cash with them on certain notes they gave me bogus bonds which are worth with no count if the amount They drove and went into bankruptcy turning over the property to their wives leaving me in a poor condition with my six children My husband being sick is not able to offer us any support and we are in great distress Pity us for our misfortunes

(Signed) MRS F GOLDBERG

No 37 Lewis street, New York.

Not alone was the eldest girl decorated with this extraordinary adornment each of the youngest in line in the baby carriage and in arms shared The excitement created by their appearance was fairly baffles description and in a few moments the members of the Stock and Gold Exchanges had quitted their usual resorts and crowded the street watching the novel spectacle In a short time the crowd became so dense that the thoroughfare was completely blocked up and the passage of cars and vehicles of all kinds obstructed This condition of affairs brought the detectives upon the scene and they politely but firmly requested Mrs Goldberg and her children to move on But to move on was the very last thing that Mrs Goldberg proposed doing and in despite of all opposition she insisted on making her way to the office of Mr Utley and upon the devoted head of that gentleman proceed to discharge the vials of her wrath the process seeming to afford anything but pleasure to the victim who said the whole affair was a Blackmailing dodge Finding threats again endeavored to induce Mrs Gold berg to depart and at length one of them, finding entreaties and expostulation vain took the lady gently by the shoulders in order to show her the door

She and the children screamed frightfully and went into the street Shortly after she was taken in charge by two officers of the First Precinct who conveyed her and her children to the Italian House and subsequently to the Police Court —N Y Times Aug 27

WAN LEE AS PAPER-CARRIER

BY BRET HARTE

His last performance I grieve to say was not attended with equal success One of our regular paper-carriers fell sick and at a much Wan Lee was ordered to fill his place To prevent mistakes he was shown over the route the previous evening and supplied at 8h at Inylight with the usual number of subscribers copies He returned after an hour in good spirits and without the papers He had delivered them all he said

Unfortunately for Wan Lee, at about eight o'clock indignant subscribers began to arrive at the office They had received their copies but how? In the form of hard-pressed common balls delivered by a single shot and a mere tour de force through the glass of bed room windows They had received them full in the face, like a base ball if they happened to be up and starring they had received them in quarter sheets, stacked in at separate windows they had found them in the chimney pinned against the door shot through attic windows, delivered in long slips through convenient keyholes, rolled into cylinders and occupying the same can with the morning's milk One subscriber, who waited for some time at the office door to have a personal interview with Wan Lee (then comfortably locked in my bed-room) told me with tears of rage in his eyes that he had been awakened at five o clock by a most hideous yelling below his windows that on rising in great agitation he was startled by the sudden appearance of the Northern Star rolled hard and bent into form of a boomerang or East Indian club, that sailed into the window described a number of fiendish circles in the room knocked over the light slapped the baby's face took him (the subscriber) in the jaw, and then returned out of the window and dropped heavily in the area During the rest of the day wads and strips of soiled paper purporting to be copies of the Northern Star of that morning's issue, were brought indignantly to the office An infuriated storekeeper in the Residences of Humboldt County which I had constructed the evening before, and which I had reason to believe, might have changed the whole balance of trade during the ensuing year, and left San F[illegible] bankrupt at her whirver, was in the habit, lost to the public —From Wan Lee, the Pagan," Scribner's for September

WHERE OF A HEN'S EGG

CHANGES THAT OCCUR DURING INCUBATION

The following observations on the changes that occur from hour to hour during the incubation of the hen's egg are from Sturm's Reflections The hen has scarcely sat on the egg twelve hours before some lineaments of the head and body of the chicken appear The heart may be seen at least at the end of the second day it has at that time somewhat the form of a horse shoe but no blood yet appears At the end of two days two vessels of blood are to be distinguished the pulsation of which is visible One of these is the left ventricle, and the other the rest of the great artery At the fifteenth hour one auricle of the heart appears, resembling a noose folded down upon itself The beating of the heart is first observed in the auricle and afterwards in the ventricle At the end of 70 hours the wings are distinguishable and on the head two bubbles are seen for the brain one for the bill, and two for the fore and hind part of the head Towards the end of the fourth day the auricles already visible draw more to the heart than before The liver appears toward the fifth day At the end of seven hours more, the lungs and stomach appear visible, and four hours afterward, the intestines, and lungs, and upper jaw At the one hundred and forty fourth hour, two ventricles are visible and two drops of blood instead of the single one which was seen before The seventh day the brain begins to have some consistency At the one hundred and nineteenth hour of incubation the bill opens and the flesh appears on the breast In four hours more the breast bone is seen In six hours after this the ribs appear, forming from the back, and the bill is very visible as well as the gall bladder The bill becomes green at the end of two hundred and thirty six hours, and if the chicken be taken out of its covering it evidently moves itself At the two hundred and sixty fourth hour the eyes appear. At the two hundred and eighty eighth the ribs are perfect At the three hundred and thirty first the spleen draws near the stomach and the lungs to the chest At the end of three hundred and fifty five hours the bill frequently opens and shuts, and at the end of the eighteenth day the cry of the chicken is heard It afterward gets more strength and grows continually till at length it is enabled to set itself free from its confinement

JAMES CURTIN—The Bellefonte (Penn) Watchman, published at the home of Ex Gov Andrew G Curtin says We are not specially authorized to speak for him but the country may take our word for it that Gov Curtin is no longer acting with the Republican or Radical party nor has he for a long time. Be assured Democrats and Conservative white citizens of Pennsylvania that we shall have the assistance and best wishes of Andrew G Curtin for Democratic success this fall He is with us in heart and soul, and although we have not heard him so state, we believe that his subsequent words will be heard for us on the stump

ANOTHER REPORT ABOUT GENERAL HANCOCK —The Norristown (Penn) Herald says that General W S Hancock spent several days last week in visiting his friends in Montgomery and its vicinity and that while in conversation with some of our citizens he intimated that he was an aspirant for the high and exalted honors, and that he would be offered as a candidate for the Presidency in the next campaign He stated that there would be a number of candidates brought forward but there were certain considerations which he thought entitled him to party favor"

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 9s 6d@9s 11d for average California and 10s 4d@11s 3d for club

While sitting the coming of the angel that shall move the stagnant waters of the money market a stagnation which not only exists here but almost everywhere throughout the country it might be well if farmers merchants and in fact all classes of business men to take a calm survey of the outlook and see if in their judgment we are to have a better market and a active demand for our products or the hope has been that we shall have That we depend mainly upon the markets of Europe to place our grain and salmon and the countries of the Pacific ocean for our lumber and fruit is admitted. And the prospect of a bountiful supply of wheat in other wheat producing countries which compete with this coast in the European markets precludes the hope that an urgent demand will ensue for our grain as might be expected were there any general failure of crops For all our other products the outlook for prices is fully as good as the average season Unless the prospect for tonnage is damaged by the circumstances which have delayed the vessels now here in obtaining cargoes there is every reason to believe that the supply of foreign bound vessels will be in excess of any former year and at rates lower than we have ever had before. Among the possibilities may an exchange which, to every active business man is the fact that by many long headed persons trouble on the further side of the water is anticipated and as it is an ill wind which blows no one any good we expect in that event to profit by the misfortunes of others. Mr Disraeli the English Premier has made the statement that political affairs are far from peaceful on the Continent which declaration coming from so much a source is certainly entitled to some consideration The escape of Marshal Bazaine bids fair to cause a revival of political agitation in France, which may end in a crisis the result of which would require prophetic vision to foresee. In addition to these causes of disturbance Herr Bismarck has announced the intention of [illegible] to the Spanish Question To sum it all up the Protestant and Catholic forces appear in Europe to be arrayed one against the other and to await only the first call of the bugle to spring into action If our products and commodities should be required in aid of a foreign war we might look forward to a speedy and a violent reaction from the present dullness. If on the other hand we are only to look to ourselves for our prosperity, it is to be feared that we have not enough of recuperative energy to compel tidy change and at once the current of recent events

The trade movement in this city for the week so far has exhibited some signs of reviving activity and most branches of business have done better than last week It may be that commercial transactions will not resume all the activity and business witnessed in some former years but business men generally are confident that by the time the fall and winter trade are fairly opened there will be an activity in transactions based on conservative principles and therefore comprising a very strong element of prosperity which was perhaps somewhat lacking in the trade of 1873

The Stave Business

The fact is admitted that our supplies of timber for nearly all purposes on this northwest coast are inexhaustible and the only trouble is to find where it can be profitably marketed since the establishment of a regular line of sailing vessels between this port and the Sandwich Islands, it has been determined that the supply of staves to put up the large quantity of sugar and syrups produced on those islands for export, can be obtained more cheaply from Oregon and Washington Territory than elsewhere, and the enterprise is already on foot to establish this branch of trade and to keep it up in the future Most of these staves have been to come from Boston and other points equally remote and planters on the Islands have been obliged to make their contracts for a term of years so as to insure the necessary supplies and there is every reason to believe that our State can successfully compete with all other localities in the business The bark Macleay took a few shooks or bolts on her last trip and as soon as her owners have arranged for making the staves here she will be entitled to take full cargoes at each trip to the advantage of her owners as well as creating additional source of revenue to the country The business is not a very extensive one but we are glad it is to be established and with the gentlemen who are engaged in it every success.

The Grain Market.

There seems as yet to be but little doing in this department of trade and a gentleman who has just made a trip up the valley to Lane county on a tour of observation informs us that it will be nearly or quite a week yet before a majority of the farmers are ready to haul their grain to market. The wheat is mostly cut as well as the oat crop but there is much of both that has not been thrashed The latter cereal is reported not to be turning out as well as was hoped a few weeks ago but still the crop will be a fair one The summer has been intermixed with too much cool damp weather Barley and rye are said to be yielding fully average and of the former the acreage harvested is larger than any previous year The crops being now mostly saved it becomes very important to know what is to be expected of the market But little has been developed to indicate the turn in affairs since our last review A few hundred tons (not more than five or six) have been received here since the first and we are informed that the bulk of this has not been sold at all but borrowed by the firm with which it had been stored who calculated to buy at current rates when the storm call for their grain We also learn that farmers have made very decided objections to this manner of business and have expressed a very severe unwillingness to allow warehousemen the privilege of speculating on their wheat

Foreign advices as we learn imply no change for better prices, though it is claimed that our market exhibits signs of strengthening owing principally we expect to the fact that parties having a vessel under charter and paying demurrage have offered $1 55 per central for a cargo delivered alongside ship at Astoria This is equivalent to about $1 50 in Portland but though we have ten or twelve large ships here some of which are receiving as high as $100 per day demurrage we cannot find that any such price as $1 50 is offered here for grain to load them

As yet, the barks Hermine and Alumini are the only ships that have received any part of their cargo and we learn to-day that reports are current that possibly the remainder of the latter's cargo may not be forthcoming though it was expected that she would have been ready to sail by this time The Hermine has only a portion of her load on board and is idly awaiting the rest.

Produce Market.

WHEAT—The receipts of this cereal are slightly increasing in volume but as yet they are so small that the vessels in port will all scarcely be loaded before the end of the month without a still greater flow of the article seaward We learn that the millers are paying a little better figure than exporters can afford At McMinnville 90 cents a bushel has been paid and the same at Salem 90 cents has been offered at Jefferson with no takers. This was without sacks which cost 7½ cents more A few transactions are noticed here, made on the basis of $1 40@1 45 per central delivered in sacks. We are also informed that an offer of $1 35 was made to-day for a cargo delivered at Astoria.
